Transfer Credit: University-Wide Policy

At the time of admission to a Fielding Graduate University academic program, Fielding will evaluate requests for transfer credit by admitted students based on previous coursework completed at other regionally accredited institutions. Applicants who have international degrees/credit will need to have their international transcripts evaluated for degree/credit equivalency to a regionally accredited U.S. degree/school before Fielding will evaluate such credit for transfer. Applicants with international credit should contact the Fielding Admission Office for information about those organizations that Fielding utilizes and has approved to provide such evaluations.

Previous course work must be evaluated for transfer credit by the program's Admission Committee as equivalent to a course in that program's curriculum. The university policy is that such courses must have been completed within no longer than the past eight (8) years. Individual programs may set shorter time limits. The program policies can be found in the program specific sections of this handbook.

Generally, students are required to complete course work and requirements as described in program materials. However, prior experiential learning may be utilized to demonstrate competence for courses in certain programs.

Enrolled students, who are not granted transfer credit upon admission to Fielding Graduate University, or credit via prior learning assessment, may petition via the Degree Audit Adjustment policy for an exemption of a specific requirement based upon other types of prior work or experience.

Regarding the Transfer of Fielding Credits to Other Schools

No school can guarantee that credits from courses are transferable, unless two schools have a consortium agreement in place. Transfer of credits is always at the discretion of the receiving school and depends on the comparability of curricula and accreditation.
Transfer Credit Policy: Clinical Psychology program

Students who enter the Clinical Psychology doctoral program are eligible to receive up to 12 units of transfer credits from previous graduate institutions based on the following qualifications:

- Courses must be taken in a master's or doctoral program from the psychology department of a regionally accredited college, university, or professional school. In general, such courses have been assigned a PSY prefix to the course number.

- Courses must be taken within the past five years.

- Grades in the courses must be B or better.

- The course content must be judged equivalent to a current course in the Fielding Clinical Psychology Program curriculum.

- There must be at least one scholarly paper. Assessment solely by exams is not sufficient. A significant portion of the readings needs to come from primary sources (reading authors and research articles in the original). Additionally, the course must meet the competencies and learning objectives of the relevant Fielding course.

- These transfer units can only be applied as credit for courses numbered PSY 702, 703, 705-708, 711B, 712.

The rules and procedures for determining transfer credits are as follows:

- Transfer credits will only be awarded at the time of admission to the graduate program. There will be no retroactive granting of transfer credits for students currently in the program.

- Transfer credits must be requested by incoming students upon submission of enrollment materials. Decisions regarding transfer of credits will be made by the Clinical Psychology Program Director and processed by the Registrar's Office. A general procedural rule guiding the decision is relatively automatic transfer of credits from accredited doctoral programs and more careful review of course content and assignments from MA or MS programs. Incoming students will be informed of decisions regarding transfer credit requests at or before the New Student Orientation in Santa Barbara.

Transfer credit allows students to take more elective units. Even with transfer credit, the minimum time to graduation remains five years given the sequencing of clinical training requirements.

Policy Revised 09/28/2015
Transfer Credit Policy: EdD doctoral program

Incoming students to the EdD program are eligible to receive up to 20 units of transfer credit based on the following qualifications:

• Courses must be taken at a Master’s level or above at a regionally accredited institution or they must be part of a formal articulation agreement with a regionally accredited master’s program.

• Courses must be taken within the last 8 years.

• Grades in the courses must be "B" or better (3.0 or better on a 4 point scale).

• Courses must be judged to be equivalent to a current course in the current program curriculum.

• The transfer credit can only be applied as credit for elective courses - all students must complete the core required courses.

• The course must meet the competencies and learning objectives of the relevant EdD course.

• There must be at least one scholarly paper. Assessment solely by exams is not sufficient. A significant portion of the readings needs to come from primary sources (reading authors and research articles in the original).

Transfer credits will be awarded at the time of admission to the graduate program. There will be no retroactive granting of transfer credits for students currently in the program. The combination of transfer credits and/or articulated credit (from internal or external programs) cannot equal more than 20 credits, with certain exceptions made for internal articulations, as outlined in the Transfer from One Program of Study to Another policy.

Policy Revised 09/01/2020
Transfer Credit Policy: HD and OD&C PhD programs

Incoming Human Development or Organizational Development & Change students are eligible to receive up to 20 units of transfer credit based on the following qualifications:

- Courses must be taken at a Master’s level or above at a regionally accredited institution or part of a formal articulation agreement with a regionally accredited master’s program. Graduate courses from international institutions not covered by an articulation agreement must be evaluated for course equivalency by an international evaluation service to courses at a regionally accredited US degree/school.

- Courses must be completed within the last 8 years.

- Grades in the courses must be ‘B’ or better, or CR.

- The course contents must be judged equivalent to a course in the current HD or OD&C curriculum.

- The course must meet the competencies and learning objectives of the relevant HD or OD&C course.

- There must be at least one scholarly paper. Assessment solely by exams is not sufficient. A significant portion of the readings needs to come from primary sources (reading authors and research articles in the original).

Generally, students may transfer up to a total of no more than 20 units. The combination of transfer credits and/or articulated credits cannot equal more than 20 credits, with certain exceptions made for internal articulations. No more than 12 credits of electives from Fielding certificate programs can be articulated.

The program will consider transfers of more than 20 credits for applicants who have prior doctoral credits under the following conditions:

- Doctoral courses/programs must meet the same conditions outlined above of regional accreditation, international evaluations, or articulation agreements.

- No more than 40 credits may be transferred.

- Prior to finalization of more than 20 transfer credits, the applicant must submit additional documents, as required by the Program. These may include three or more scholar-practitioner papers from prior doctoral work. In addition, they may be required to have one or more additional faculty interviews.

- These additional transfer credits must be approved by the HOD Program Director and the Department Chair for Leadership Studies.

- The following courses will not be eligible for transfer: HOD-699 Foundations of Doctoral Study, HOD-801 Doctoral Competencies Seminar, HOD-810 Portfolio Review, HOD-

The program may also consider waivers of requirements based on professional experiences (e.g., not coursework). Please consult the Degree Audit Adjustments policy in the catalog for further information.

Transfer credits will be awarded at the time of admission to the graduate program. There will be no retroactive granting of transfer credits for students currently in the program.

Policy Revised 08/01/2019
Transfer Credit Policy: IECD PhD program

Incoming students to the PhD in IECD program are eligible to receive up to 20 units of transfer credit based on the following qualifications:

- Courses must have been taken at a Master’s level or above at a regionally accredited institution within the last 5 years.
- Grades in the courses must be "B" or better (3.0 or better on a 4 point scale).
- Courses must be equivalent to a current course in the current program curriculum and must meet the competencies and learning objectives of the relevant IECD course.
- There must be at least one scholarly paper. Assessment solely by exams is not sufficient. A significant portion of the readings needs to come from primary sources (reading authors and research articles in the original).
- Students may transfer courses from each of the following areas based on the listed limits, and for a total of no more than 20 units across all areas:
  - No more than 12 credits from:
    - IECD-520 Human Development
    - IECD-521 Infant Mental Health
    - IECD-522 Sensory-Motor Development
    - IECD-523 Language Development
    - IECD-524 Developmental Disabilities
    - IECD-526 Cross-cultural Understanding
    - IECD-527 Law, Policy, and Advocacy
  - No more than 8 credits from:
    - IECD-536 Statistics I
    - IECD-537 Research Design
    - IECD-538 Statistics II/Practice
    - IECD-539 Qualitative Research/Practice
  - No more than 20 credits from any IECD elective
- The doctoral program will also consider awarding transfer credit for workforce courses evaluated by the American Council on Education (ACE) National Guide to College Credit for Workforce Training program.

Transfer credits will be awarded at the time of admission to the graduate program. There will be no retroactive granting of transfer credits for students currently in the program. The combination of transfer credits and/or articulated credit (from internal or external programs) cannot equal more than 20 credits, with certain exceptions made for internal articulations, as outlined in the Transfer from One Program of Study to Another policy.

Policy Revised 06/01/2017
Transfer Credit Policy: Media Psychology PhD program

Students in the Media Psychology PhD program are eligible to receive up to 20 units of transfer credit from previous graduate institutions based on the following qualifications:

- Courses must be taken in a master's or doctoral program from the psychology department of a regionally accredited college, university, or professional school. Certain course units may be transferred from departments other than psychology; see below for details.

- Courses must be taken within the past five years.

- Grades in the courses must be B or better.

- The course must be judged equivalent to a current course in the Media Psychology PhD program curriculum.

Students may transfer up to 12 units from each of the following areas (for a total of no more than 20 units):

No more than 12 credits of:
PSY-702 Developmental Bases of Behavior, 4 credits
PSY-703 History & Systems of Psychology, 4 credits
PSY-704 Theories of Personality, 4 credits
PSY-705 Social Bases of Behavior, 4 credits

PSY-760 Independent Study, 4 credits (can include graduate level courses not included in the full PhD curriculum)
PSY-771 Legal & Ethical Issues in Media, 4 credits (can include psychology and social science ethics)

The rules and procedures for determining transfer credits are as follows:

- Transfer credits will only be awarded at the time of admission to the graduate program. There will be no retroactive granting of transfer credits for students currently in the program.
Transfer credits must be requested by incoming students upon submission of enrollment materials. Decisions regarding transfer of credits will be made by the Psychology Admission Committee and recommended to the Registrar/Academic Records Office. A general procedural rule guiding the Committee is relatively automatic transfer of credits from accredited doctoral programs and more careful review of course content from MA or MS programs. Incoming students will be informed of decisions regarding transfer credit requests at or before the in-person New Student Orientation.

Effective 09/01/12: Please be aware that the Media program does not allow more than 20 units of internally articulated and externally approved transferred credit to be applied to the program.

Policy Revised 10/01/2016
Transfer Credit Policy: ODL program

Incoming students into the self-directed model of the program are eligible to receive up to 8 units of transfer credit* to be applied toward the MA degree based on the following qualifications:

- Courses must be at a master's level from a regionally accredited college, university, or professional school, or equivalent military training or military experience.
- Courses must be taken within the last 5 years.
- Grades in the courses must be "B" or better (3.0 or better on a 4 point scale).
- Courses must be judged to be equivalent to a course in the current program curriculum.
- The transfer credit can only be applied as credit for elective courses; all students must complete the core courses.

Transfer credits will be awarded at the time of admission to the graduate program. There will be no retroactive granting of transfer credits for students currently in the program.

*Please note that the combined limit of transfer credit from external schools and articulated credit from internal Fielding programs to the ODL masters may not exceed 20 credits.

Policy Revised 04/01/2015
Transfer Credit Policy: Respecialization certificate program

Students who enter the Respecialization in Clinical Psychology certificate program are eligible to receive up to 12 units of transfer credits from previous graduate institutions based on the following qualifications:

- Courses must be taken in a master's or doctoral program from the psychology department of a regionally accredited college, university, or professional school. In general, such courses have been assigned a PSY prefix to the course number.

- Courses must be taken within the past five years.

- Grades in the courses must be B or better.

- The course must be judged equivalent to a current course in the Fielding Clinical Psychology program curriculum.

- There must be at least one scholarly paper. Assessment solely by exams is not sufficient. A significant portion of the readings needs to come from primary sources (reading authors and research articles in the original). Additionally, the course must meet the competencies and learning objectives of the relevant Fielding course.

- These transfer units can only be applied as credit for required core courses in the certificate program.

The rules and procedures for determining transfer credits are as follows:

- Transfer credits will only be awarded at the time of admission to the graduate program. There will be no retroactive granting of transfer credits for students currently in the program.

- Transfer credits must be requested by incoming students upon submission of enrollment materials. Decisions regarding transfer of credits will be made by the Clinical Psychology Program Director and recommended to the Registrar's Office. A general procedural rule guiding the decision is relatively automatic transfer of credits from accredited doctoral programs and more careful review of course content and assignments from MA or MS programs. Incoming students will be informed of decisions regarding transfer credit requests at or before the New Student Orientation in Santa Barbara.

Policy Revised 06/10/2015
Transferring your Program of Study

Current Fielding students who wish to transfer from one Fielding program of study into another must apply to do so, and admission to the new program is not guaranteed. Students interested in transferring programs should first contact their graduate program advisor for information about the transfer process.

All program transfers require the student to fill out either a new application for admission through the Admissions Office, or a program transfer application through the Office of Advising. Based on student success considerations, and in consultation with program leadership, authority for which office’s process will be followed rests with the Director of Advising, who will make those determinations on a case-by-case basis. All transfer applications from one doctoral program to another will receive some coordination by the Advising Office to ensure prior program progress is considered by the newly requested program.

In all cases, the coordinating office will seek the input of the Registrar regarding any coursework already completed at Fielding that could automatically be applied to the requirements of the newly requested program.

A program transfer request may require that the student complete pieces of, or, the entire admissions application packet, and may require that the transferring applicant participate in all other normal application processes (interview, new student orientation, etc.). The transfer application will be reviewed and acceptance or denial recommended to the Provost by the leadership of the new program. The Director of Advising will shepherd these approvals.

Appeals to program transfer decisions will only be considered upon basis of fact regarding procedural error.

Applicable articulations of courses/requirements will be automatically applied to the student's degree audit requirements in the new program upon entry. In the event that the applicant has previously completed more than one Fielding program, there may be a limit to the number of credits that applicant can bring into a particular program via articulation.

See below table for articulation limits per program.
The following limits apply:
